ten reviews and seventeen essays present critical commentary on the novel beloved by toni morrison faced with eudora welty's preference for the oblique in literary performances some have assumed that welty was not concerned with issues of race or even that she was perhaps ambivalent toward racism this collection counters those assumptions as it examines welty's handling of race the color line and jim crow segregation and sheds new light on her views about the patterns insensitivities blindness and atrocities of whiteness contributors to this volume show that welty addressed whiteness and race in her earliest stories her photography and her first novel Delta Wedding in subsequent work including The Golden Apples The Optimist's Daughter and her memoir One Writer's Beginnings she made the color line and white privilege visible revealing the gaping distances between lives lived in shared space but separated by social hierarchy and segregation even when black characters hover in the margins of her fiction they point readers toward complex lives and the black body is itself full of meaning in her work several essays suggest that welty represented race like gender and power as a performance scripted by whiteness her black characters in particular recognize whiteface and blackface as performances especially comical when white characters are unaware of their role play eudora welty whiteness and race also makes clear that welty recognized white material advantage and black economic deprivation as part of a cycle of race and poverty in america and that she connected this history to lives on either side of the color line to relationships across it and to an uneasy hierarchy of white classes within the presumed monolith of whiteness contributors mae miller claxton susan v donaldson julia eichelberger sarah ford jean c griffith rebecca mark suzanne marrs donnie mcmahand david mcwhirter harriet pollack keri watson patricia yaeger in black aliveness or a poetics of being kevin quashie imagines a black world in which one encounters black being as it is rather than only as it exists in the shadow of anti black violence as such he makes a case for black aliveness even in the face of the persistence of death in black life and black study centrally quashie theorizes aliveness through the aesthetics of poetry reading poetic inhabitation in black feminist literary texts by lucille clifton audre lorde june jordan toni morrison and evie shockley among others showing how their philosophical and creative thinking constitutes worldmaking this worldmaking conceptualizes blackness as capacious relational beyond the normative terms of recognition blackness as a condition of oneness reading for poetic aliveness then becomes a means of exploring black being rather than nonbeing and animates the ethical question how to be in this way quashie offers a black feminist philosophy of being which is nothing less than a philosophy of the becoming of the black world this gathering of critical essays is at once impressive and hospitable characteristic of morrison s own work as well basically the contributors of these pieces react to morrison as a black novelist as a female novelist or as a practitioner of the novel form period black and female or otherwise all of them are interested in how morrison has stretched the boundaries of these three categories points are made counterpoints offered her works are examined and cross examined the general opinion is that in reading morrison critics and general audience alike experience the sheer pleasure of hearing all the resonances of a voice beautiful and powerful isbn 0 8161 8884 x 37 50
